Hello friends of tour rowing,

I am making the weekends for 2027 available for booking starting in late 2026. You can find the dates in the attached calendar. The registration deadline for each date is 4 weeks prior.

For Dresden:

Please note the group size limit of 4–6 participants! The first individual to sign up must be capable of rowing a single scull (skiff). If no one else joins, the tour will take place with me in a double scull (2x) racing boat.

2 registrations > 2x+ (double scull with coxswain) touring boat;

3 registrations > 2x+ touring boat and a bicycle (unfortunately, we do not have a 3x+);

4 registrations > 4x+ (quadruple scull with coxswain) touring boat;

5 registrations > 4x+ touring boat and a bicycle;

6 registrations > 4x+ touring boat and two bicycles.

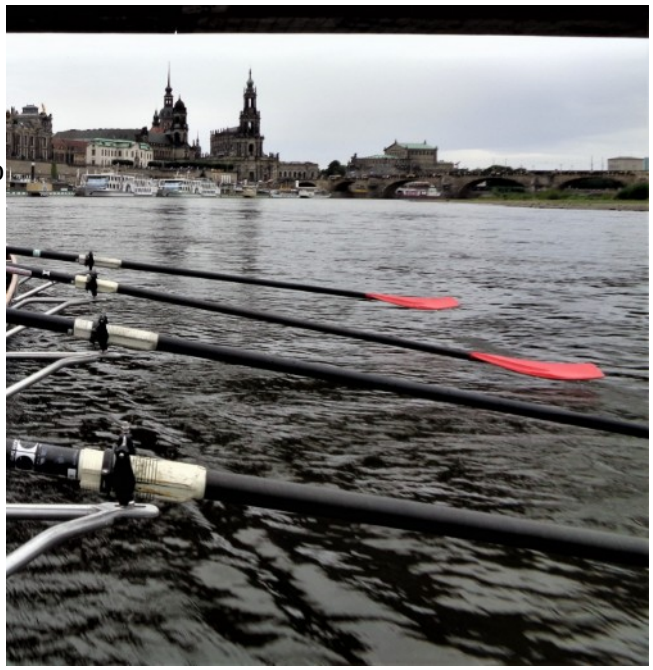

Arrival should be no later than Friday, and departure no earlier than Monday. You are welcome to extend your stay; please let us know in good time so that we can arrange your accommodation at our club. If you are arriving by air, I recommend arriving on Thursday—this provides an extra day in case of any flight delays.

Guest rooms at the Radebeul Rowing Club

Tour Description Dresden

Rowing through Dresden. The start and finish point is the Radebeul Rowing Club, located approximately 13 km downstream from Dresden city center.

Saturday: Row from Radebeul to Pirna, then return to Radebeul via public transport.

Sunday: Travel to Pirna via public transport, then return to Radebeul by boat/bicycle.

Waterway: The Elbe River; free-flowing current (approx. 4 km/h), no locks.

Day trips: Two 34 km way length. Saturday, approx. 8:00 AM – 7:00 PM (including breaks). Sunday: from Pirna to Radebeul (approx. 3 hours of actual rowing time).

Participants: 4–6 rowers (4 in a quadruple scull with coxswain [4X+], with 2 people cycling and rotating in/out of the boat). I will be in the boat at all times. Alternatively, a group of 4 guests can choose to row/cox only (no cycling).

Accommodation: At the Radebeul boathouse; sleeping quarters with 1, 2, 2, 4, and 3 beds (12 beds total).

Rowing days: Saturday and Sunday; arrival at the club by Friday at the latest, departure from the club on Monday at the earliest.

Costs: Approx. €120 (varies based on the length of your stay). Extended stays available upon request.

Alternatively, Saturday trips can head downstream to Meissen and back to Radebeul, while Sunday trips can head in the opposite direction toward Dresden. The exact distances for both routes can be discussed and adjusted with me, depending on the time of year and the length of the day.

I will do my best to be present when you arrive.

Tour Description Berlin

Rowing on Berlin’s waterways. Various routes are available; I am happy to accommodate your preferences.

Waterways: Lowland rivers with very little current—such as the Spree or the Dahme—with or without locks, depending on the chosen route.

Day trips: 30 km (recommended), though shorter or longer distances are possible.

Participants: 1 to 4 rowers.

Accommodation: In the boathouse; sleeping quarters with 5–11 beds.

Rowing days: Saturday and Sunday; Friday (arrival day) is also an option. Costs: Approx. €80. Depending on the length of the stay. Extensions to the stay are possible upon request.

Anyone arriving at the Berlin Rowing Club before me, must be able to speak German or English in order to coordinate their reception at the club! In the event of a very late arrival during the night, it is not reasonable to expect the host club to provide a reception.

Please feel free to forward this announcement to other interested rowers! If you no longer wish to receive this newsletter, please let me know so that I can delete your details!

I look forward hearing from you.

Please, no beginners! Proficiency in rowing technique and a good level of physical fitness are required.

Ingolf Martin nitram.flogni@gmail.com

That is my first name!